Durham Indigenous Voices
Reconciliation,
Resistance, Resilience and Resurgence

A 4 Part Anti-Indigenous Racism Discussion

Canada's deputy minister of Indian Affairs Duncan Campbell Scott in 1920: "Our object is to continue until there is not a single Indian in Canada that has not been absorbed into the body politic."

Each discussion will be: 6:30 - 8:30 pm	Reconciliation: June 17 2021	Resilience: July 29 2021
	Resistance: July 8 2021	Resurgence: August 19 2021

Durham Region libraries, Durham College, Ontario Tech University, DCSI, OTSU and the Region of Durham are offering the final two sessions in a collaborative four-part panel discussion with Indigenous peoples and First Nations from the Durham Region. Reconciliation, Resistance, Resilience, and Resurgence will focus on actions that support and amplify Indigenous Voices in our community as we move forward with the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Calls-to-Action.

Resilience: July 29, 2021, 6:30-8:30 pm

Resurgence: August 19th, 6:30 to 8:30 pm

A direct link to the Eventbrite registration is available on the library's calendar at www.scugoglibrary.ca

Just Mercy (PG)

When: Thursday August 12 at 6:30pm

After graduating from Harvard, Bryan Stevenson had his pick of lucrative jobs. Instead, he heads to Alabama to defend those wrongly condemned or who were not afforded proper representation, with the support of local advocate Eva Ansley.

And The Birds Rained Down / Il Pleuvait des Oiseaux (14A)

When: Thursday, August 26th at 6:30pm

An adaptation of the novel by Jocelyne Saucier, this Canadian drama centres on a group of senior citizens living off-the-grid in a wilderness setting, whose orderly and quiet lives are threatened after the death of the group leader and the arrival of a new outsider.

How does it work? Register now on our website <https://www.scugoglibrary.ca/movienight> and on the day of the screening, you will receive an email link to stream the film through Criterion-on-Demand. Registration is limited to 100 participants, so register early!
